

Abstract of the Disclosure

5 Systems and methods for improving the performance of dynamic router table data structures are provided. The invention relates to methods and systems for partitioning prefixes or prefix-based intervals. In one embodiment, priority search tree router data structures are applied to prefix partitions of the present invention. In another embodiment, basic-interval tree and prefix tree data structures are applied to interval partitions of the present invention.